

Before you apply...

Research your major options

UCLA is open to freshmen and junior-level transfer students for the fall quarter only. For information about UCLA's majors, please go to www.admission.ucla.edu/majors.

There may be different degree programs at several UC campuses that can get you to your career goal; knowing what they are will give you more options when you apply. Check which majors are open in a given term at www.universityofcalifornia.edu/admissions/how-to-apply/check-majors.

Apply broadly

All UC-eligible California residents who apply on time will be offered admission to one of the University's nine undergraduate campuses, but not necessarily to their campus of choice. Students who research and apply to several campuses are more likely to be admitted to a campus they would like to attend.

Go to www.universityofcalifornia.edu/apply to learn more about the University of California online application process. There is one online application for the entire University of California system. On the application, you will be able to indicate to which of the UC campuses you are interested in applying.

When you apply...

Use the right browser

The UC online application functions with Firefox, Internet Explorer 8, Chrome 6 and Safari 5. You can download these browsers from the application website.

Follow directions

Answers to common questions appear on every page. If you can't find an answer, contact the Undergraduate Application Processing Center help desk (see back).

Personal information

Please visit www.admission.ucla.edu/Prospect/PerStmt.htm for helpful tips on providing personal information.

Save your work

If you take a break from your application, sign out or click "Next" or click "Next session" to save your work.

will provide your final grades from the last term completed, as well as any courses in progress or planned before you enroll at UC.

Order test score reports

Freshman applicants should have the relevant testing agency send all official ACT and/or SAT results to a UC campus (your test scores will be shared with all UC campuses to which you have applied).

High school and college transcripts

You will only need to submit official, final high school and/or college/university transcripts to our office if you are admitted to UCLA or if we contact you for specific information about your application.

Letters of recommendation

UCLA does not require or solicit letters of recommendation for undergraduate admission. Do not submit recommendations unless they are specifically requested by a UC campus.

Supplemental Application

The School of the Arts and Architecture; School of Nursing; and School of Theater, Film and Television require additional information after you apply. Go directly to these websites for important dates and deadlines and more information about their supplemental review process.
